

Hello from JDi

At JDi we are committed to helping you simplify your business. We want you to work faster, not slow you down with a crowded inbox. We know time is money, and saving some of both is the optimal solution—like our software.

We noticed you haven't opened our emails in awhile. We hope the content we've shared is still of interest. So we thought to ask you one question: Would you like to continue receiving content from us?

One of our software solutions is a self-serving workflow. Thus, the power to continue hearing from us is yours.

If you don't click the button above, we'll stop emailing you. No hard feelings; you could always opt back in by using the subscribe page on our website.

Thank you,
Michael Del Fierro, National Accounts Executive

For the Stitcher On the Go!

You're in the Home Stretch...

You have pieced, basted, and quilted your quilt. After all of these steps in the process and a lot of work hours to boot, you're finally in the home stretch!

In these last steps, binding provides a protected edge to guard against wear and tear. A label honors the maker and the recipient and documents the quilt's beginnings. If the quilt is to be hung on a wall or a quilt show, a sturdy hanging sleeve keep it in place.

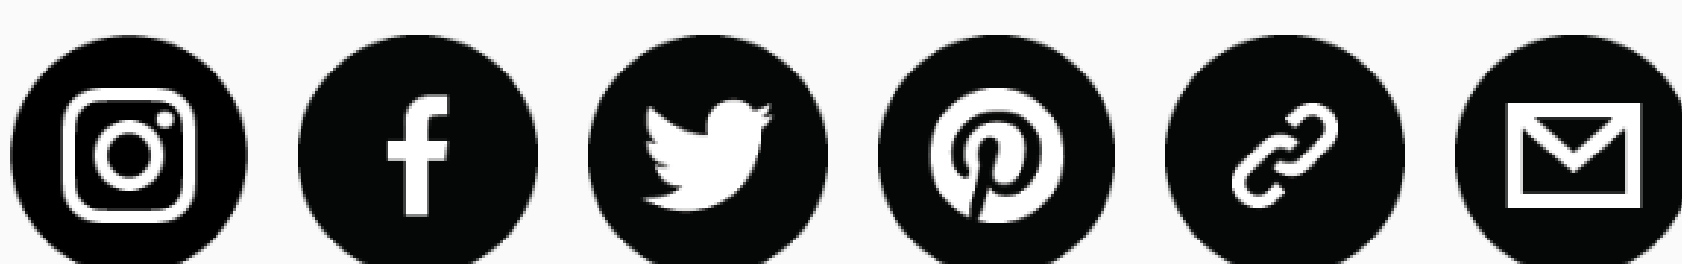

These new to the studio products will help you finish a quilt to be proud of!
